

Criteria 4 – It Is Easy For Youth To Find Information About Play Activities In SSM

Sault Ste. Marie and the Algoma District, covers a very large geographical area of Northern Ontario that includes Aboriginal, Rural, and City communities. Our city has a number of distinct neighborhoods, including North, Central, Downtown, West End, and East End which is surrounded by large city/rural areas. As Sault Ste. Marie is the only large city in the District, it is also a hub for those living outside the city limits. Considering the diversity of youth in such a vast region, a variety of communication vehicles are needed.

Sault Ste. Marie has a strong on-line independent media presence driven partially by the consolidation of the CTV Northern Television News network into a single regional newscast. The result of this consolidation is that local television coverage has decreased which boosts the need for diversity regarding the sources by which local news, information and events is shared. Sootoday.ca. has filled a necessary need as a community media resource and information tool. Founded back in 2000, this site is one of the pioneers on the Canadian digital news landscape. As shown by the tangible evidence supplied for much of the Playworks Criteria, Sootoday news articles alone are responsible for much of the content. Along with the regular local news, Sootoday also publishes special features, such as “Weekend Trippin’” and “The Soo To-Do List,” which describe various special events and attractions, many of which have youth appeal. The “The Soo To-Do List” in particular highlights both “institutionalized” youth events as well as youth organized happenings.

Another player on the independent news scene is LOCAL2, an online news provider that combines the best parts of a traditional television station with a newspaper. Along with a daily news webcast, the website also hosts thousands of videos featuring a variety of events and organizations, including many that showcase youth content. Many LOCAL2 videos are used to support several criteria of Playworks. A partner of Sootoday, both media organizations represent a majority of media consumption in our city. Both organizations are committed community supporters, providing free event calendars available for public posting, so there is always an accessible promotional outlet for youth organizations. Recently, there has been a concerted effort by individuals and organizations to create centralized online hubs for community events, services and activities. Sooguide.com is an extensive resource which organizes community information from a family perspective. Sqorch.com is another innovative event attractions listing platform which routinely feature youth friendly events. The City of Sault Ste. Marie’s Recreation and Culture Division has regularly maintained a directory of leisure services for many years, accessible from the city website, it has always featured many youth organizations.

As to be expected, social media is where youth engagement and information sharing lives. A couple notable Facebook group examples are the “Youth Social Infrastructure Algoma Nest,” the spinoff “The Make it Happen” page and “Sault Ste. Marie All Ages.” The “Make it Happen” page in particular is a site where youth can become informed and involved. Various organizations also produce their own newsletters and blogs, which are either partially or entirely directed towards youth. A notable example is the Eyes and Ears Community Blog, driven by an art based youth led collective.

As is customary, many of the local coffee shops and other small businesses have been gladly playing the role as a community information hub. Perusing these poster displays on a regular basis, youth can find multiple youth oriented information and events posted specific to their interests. Case’s Music, a downtown music store, has taken this community promotion one step further, and devoted the front window of their downtown location to showcases and advertises community events.

For our viewer's convenience, we also offer archived local news, sports, births and deaths information with a search engine.

SooToday.com is updated all day long although much of the new material (police reports, sports, editorials, etc.) is posted each day at 7:00am, 365 days per year.

NEWS RELEASE

SHAW COMMUNICATIONS INC

Free access to almost 900 Shaw Go WiFi hotspots, including the Essar Centre and John Rhodes Community Centre

CALGARY – Shaw Communications Inc. announced it will be expanding access to its extensive Shaw Go WiFi guest network at all locations in Sault Ste. Marie.

Beginning today and continuing until September 14, all residents will be able to access Shaw’s extensive WiFi network at almost 900 hotspots across the city for free, regardless of whether they are Shaw customers or not.

“This expanded Shaw Go WiFi guest network will allow all residents to use our superior and cost-effective network, while accessing the content they want in hundreds of locations across the city,” said Ron McKenzie, Vice President, Operations, Shaw Communications Inc. “As Canada’s leading Internet company, we are eager to provide Sault Ste. Marie residents and visitors with a level of wireless Internet access that is comparable to what over 400,000 of our customers across the country already enjoy.”

As Canada’s largest WiFi network, Shaw Go WiFi provides residents with Internet connectivity at hotspots located at more than 460 locations across Sault Ste. Marie, allowing them to access content using portable connected devices, while avoiding potentially expensive cellular data charges.

These sites include the John Rhodes Community Centre; the Essar Centre; the Civic Centre; along Queen Street from Andrew Street to Simpson Street, as well as multiple local businesses throughout the city.

A full list of locations is available at www.shaw.ca/wifi or by downloading the Shaw Go WiFi Finder App.

Residents who are not Shaw customers can connect to the network for free on their laptop and mobile devices by selecting “ShawGuest” on the list of available WiFi hot spots at participating city facilities and following the steps to register their devices.

Registration for the service only needs to be done once, after which users can simply login in with their

SH Student Council

[Edition 1, Volume 1]

June 2013

Follow us @HeightsCouncil

Your council for 2013-2014

The election is done and the results are out, and we are pleased to announce that your next year student council will consist of Matthew Boston and Madeline Christenson as co-presidents, and Brooke Skinner as vice president. Thank you Monica Marshall for participating in this years election.

"Leadership is action, not position"

– Donald H. McGannon

The year in review

The student council is responsible for many things around the school and we love to stay involved with the student body by organizing fun events to run throughout the year. Just this past year we organized many themed events, we sold hot cocoa when it was cold, we sold valentine's day kabobs, we ran an egg hunt for Easter, we built our float for the annual Santa clause parade as well as an ugly Christmas sweater week, we organized the Remembrance Day assembly, a costume contest and a door designing contest for Halloween and we had a homeroom challenge to grow a plant for earth day. Not only do we organize themed events, but we also organize little things during the year. During the 2012-2013 year, there were bake sales pep rallies; we raised money for a local charity during the community car wash. As you can see, your council may be more involved in your school than you think.

We're recruiting!

KORAH COLLEGIATE & VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

“HOME OF THE COLTS”

Two-thirds of the way through the school year and perhaps the first signs of spring are on the way with milder temperatures. Since the last issue of the Stallion Express released in December, our students, staff, parents, and school as a whole have accomplished many great things. I invite parents and guardians to contribute to and experience the multitude of activities scheduled during the remainder of the 2013-2014 year.

In this third issue of the “STALLION EXPRESS” electronic newsletter for 2013-2014, we will update you on upcoming events taking place over the next several months at Korah. Once again, we hope that as you navigate your way through this communiqué, you feel just as proud of our accomplishments as we do and the opportunities available to you and your child(ren).

The “STALLION EXPRESS” inaugural publication was released during the fall of 2009 and is now in its 5th year of existence. For those families who will be receiving this newsletter for the first time, expect an issue to be released typically four times per year focusing on the following topics:

ACADEMICS

ARTS

ATHLETICS

SCHOOL COUNCIL/PTA

OTHER NEWS

The “STALLION EXPRESS” we hope will improve communication between home and school in addition to our school website, message board, synrevoice, written correspondence, and just recently via Twitter.

THE ARTIST

Strange-folk phenomenon Wax Mannequin is well-travelled. He has crossed a wide range of terrain — both sonic and physical — this decade past. Through his catalogue of secretly renowned recordings and his riotous live performances at countless venues and festivals, Wax continues to bring his essential voice and vision to both sides of the Atlantic. His legend grows through word-of-mouth as his music is passed from hand-to-hand — his influence trickles down from the minds of wayward kindred souls, insidiously seeping into the poetic heart of this country.

Taking Back Downtown presents: The Gore St. Flower Bomb

July 14, 2014

Taking Back Downtown brought together a crowd of over 150 people last Saturday for a community beautification project titled The Gore St. Flower Bomb.

Throughout the afternoon, volunteers were busy picking up trash, sweeping the street, pulling weeds, cleaning windows, painting storefronts and flower boxes, and planting donated greenery and flowers in order to breathe new life into an otherwise neglected area of the city's downtown.

Hello again, Jess here. So much has happened and is coming up! An update seems long over due. Children's Mental Health Week and Police week were a success and the lemonade stand down at Mill Market is amazing! Exams are in full swing for a lot of you right now and summer is just around the corner. Even though formal YOUNION meetings will be taking a bit of a break for July there is still LOTS happening so keep checking our facebook and twitter for updates (there are links to your left).

Clara Hughes will be in the soo June 24th! There will be a big event happening at 7pm at the pavilion and YOUNION will have a photo booth so let us know if you will be there or just drop by and get a silly picture taken!

The lemonade stand will be open at Mill Market every Saturday throughout the summer- so come on down and buy a glass or contact me if you would be willing to volunteer at the stand for a week or more! All proceeds feed back into our group to run youth led programming in the soo!

Also a group of YOUNION youth will be attending CMHO's Disable the Label conference in Orillia in just a couple of weeks! If you would like to attend in future years talk to me about joining the group and we will make sure that you are able to get involved in opportunities like this!

Well, I think that is all for now. Send me an email if you'd like to be added to our email list. Or like us on Facebook and follow us on Twitter and you will be certain to hear what we are up to!
